About Scronce Farm Co.

Located on the east side of Bend, Karl Scronce has a one acre garden filled with a variety of fruits and vegetables, as well as strawberries and raspberries. When he and his wife moved to their property the land was rocky and full of weeds. Karl dug out the weeds, collected the rocks, and extended the irrigation lines because he believes that if you own the land you might as well farm to the end of the field. Beyond the fence, you'll see his Angus beef cattle grazing and waiting for garden goodies to be thrown over the fence to them.

"Creating a quality product at a fair price is key."

FEEDING CATTLE

Why farm?

"It satisfies me and I enjoy it. It feels like something that's purposeful. I'm trying to improve the place and increase production."

Is farming in your family?

"Yes, my grandfather immigrated from Europe to Klamath and started farming. We've been farming for 104 years!"
